Road repairs approved

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Crews will be busy ironing out some bumps in Romulus roads soon once a $3.9 million improvement project begins.

City councilmembers Monday approved a four-year agreement with Wayne County to begin repair of numerous county roads within the city. Romulus will be responsible for one-third of the total cost.

Scheduled for repair in 1989 are Wayne Road from Wick to Ecorse, Ecorse Road from Middle Belt to Inkster Road, Inkster Road from Wick to Norfolk and Western Railroad and Pennsylvania from Middle Belt to Inkster.

In addition, plans will begin this year for the reconstruction of Merriman Road from Ecorse to Van Born roads.

Estimated costs for 1989 repairs come to $753,000. Romulus will be responsible for $206,500 of that amount.

Total cost for the completed, four-year project is expected to be $3.9 million. Romulus will be responsible for approximately $1.1 million.

Wayne County Director of Public Services Russell Gronevelt explained the repair program to councilmembers. Repair costs for border roads such as Pennsylvania will be split evenly between the two communities it serves, he said. Romulus will only be responsible for one-sixth of the repair costs for those roads.

"If you were to review the (bad) roads in Wayne County you would see Romulus has its fair share," Gronevelt said.

Reasons for lack of road repair in the past have included a shortage of funding and questions about prioritization, he explained.

Through the Wayne County Internal Resurfacing Program, the county will issue bonds to help pay for the repairs.

"What we're trying to do today is propose a solution to the immediate problems," he said.

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry voiced concern about the condition of Wayne Road. He asked about the possibility of

For 17-year-old Ignacio Celorio, Romulus and Van Buren Township are a far cry from his home in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Celorio is an exchange student and will be living with Dave and Barbara Ralston and their two children in Van Buren Township for the next six months as a student at Romulus High School.

"I have two cousins who recommended it," Celorio said. "One is in California and one is in Michigan."

Celorio's plans to study in the United States, however, were almost ruined.

After Celorio applied to participate in the Youth for Understanding exchange program, he was assigned to a family in Canton. He was scheduled to arrive in early January and attend school during the winter semester. The Canton family was forced to decline at the last minute due to illness in the family.

The Ralstons have hosted students through Youth for Understanding in the past, so they were approached with Celorio's dilemma. The Ralstons agreed to host Celorio assuming there would be room for him at Belleville High School.

By the time Celorio arrived, Belleville High School had already accepted its limit of six exchange students and he was faced with the possibility of a rapid return home.

Because Dave Ralston owns a Romulus business, Dave's Meat and Seafood, Romulus school officials agreed to make a place for Celorio.

"In the interest of international understanding, we made the exception," said Joel Carr, assistant superintendent for finance and operations.

As of Thursday, Celorio was taking a full load of classes at Romulus High School and adapting to life in a new country. He has already noticed numerous differences between Romulus High School and his school in Buenos Aires.

"In my country you can't choose subjects like here," he said. "Here I have six classes. You can choose what you want."

The differences between the two education systems continue after high school.

"From high school you go on to universities. There are free universities that are quite good," Celorio said.

One reason these universities can afford to offer free classes is because faculty members are not paid. Celorio's father is a professor for the University of Buenos Aires. His part-time teaching pays him approximately $15 to $20 per month, Celorio said.

Professors at these schools teach because they enjoy it, he said. His father is an attorney as well as a teacher.

Celorio said he plans to attend the University of Buenos Aires next year.

City officials say 'no thanks' to jail

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus city officials have officially declared their opposition to construction of the new Wayne County jail in Romulus.

The announcement came in the form of a resolution unanimously approved by city councilmembers Monday evening.

The resolution was proposed by Councilman Ellis Pennington.

Pennington made a motion to thank Wayne County officials for considering Romulus as a possible location for the minimum-security facility, but to suggest they seek a more willing community.

Mayor Beverly McAnally said she liked the wording of the resolution. The jail could have meant $250,000 in revenue for the city and jobs for residents, she said.

"If it was anything but a jail I would be very put out if they hadn't asked us," McAnally said.

When Romulus was named as one of four communities in the county under consideration for the jail, residents' tempers flared. City officials were presented with a petition protesting building the jail in Romulus. More than 260 names appeared on the petition.

"For business people or politicians it might do good, but I think people indicated to us pretty strongly they didn't want it. The county said if we do not want a jail we do not have to have it.

for us common people it won't do a thing," said Joseph Constante of Castle Drive.

"My biggest concern is lowering our property value and not being able to sell my house," said Stella Griffiths, of Sharon Street. "I really don't want a thing like that in my neighborhood."

"Just the idea of a little town with a jail is going to keep some people from building here," said Marion Livingston, another resident.

Strong feelings such as those expressed by residents are what ultimately led to the resolution from city councilmembers Monday evening.

"I think people indicated to us pretty strongly they didn't want it," McAnally said. "The county said if we do not want a jail we do not have to have it."

Local man is charged with sexual assault

A Romulus man has been charged with sexually assaulting a woman as she walked to work early Sunday morning.

Karl Patterson, 34, was arraigned Monday in 34th District Court on one count of second-degree criminal sexual conduct. He was remanded to the Wayne County Jail. His bond was set at $25,000. A Feb. 15 preliminary exam date has been scheduled.

Patterson was arrested by Romulus police officers Sunday morning. According to police officials, he was standing near the car which a Romulus woman had been given a ride in earlier.

The woman, 39, was walking to work at approximately 4:45 a.m. along Eureka Road near Vining when a man driving a car pulled up and offered her a ride, according to a Romulus police official.

She accepted the ride, but as the driver headed north the car ran out of gas, police officials said.

Soon after they started walking along Wayne Road, the suspect reportedly sexually assaulted the woman, according to police reports. The attack reportedly included a punch to the eye.

After the assault, the suspect fled on foot and the woman flagged down a car to take her to the police station.

Shortly after the woman's report to the Romulus police, investigating officers arrested Patterson.

Students study dropouts

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

High school students and educators in Romulus can now say they have taken the first step toward tackling the problem of high school dropouts.

A day-long symposium on the subject, staged Friday at Wayne County Community College, has resulted in lengthy list of explanations for students dropping out of school and possible methods to reduce them.

More than 200 students from Romulus High School participated in the symposium, including members of student government, Students Against Drunk Driving, the National Honor Society and the Varsity Club.

Also involved in the effort were educators from the school district and elsewhere, representatives from city government, local business people and parents.

The symposium is one of the first programs offered by the new Partnerships for Education.

Participants in the symposium were addressed by Dr. Renee Lerche, who discussed the skills young people will need in the work force of 2000.

The rest of the day consisted of group discussions. Groups were assigned with different topics such as substance abuse, peer relationships, parent involvement, attendance and self-concept.

During a wrap-up at the conclusion of the symposium, a representative from each study group shared the high points of their discussion.

Cara Cichowski, president of student government, discussed ways to improve parental involvement with students. A more personal approach is needed at school, she said.

"Combine the school and the home," Cichowski said.

Members of the group suggested an "adoption program" in which parents "adopt" a student who needs extra parental support.

Judie Miller, vice president of student government, spoke for the group addressing substance abuse.

Members of that group discussed the importance of students supporting each other. Suggestions included a peer support group and a team approach.

Miller also called upon community members to provide resources and jobs.

Another possibility would be parent education programs to address the symptoms of substance abuse.

"Keep tabs on your children...but don't pry too much," Miller said.

The next group considered peer relations, how to prevent teen pregnancies and the dropouts that result from them. Jodee Jernigan, student government parliamentarian, spoke for that group.

The first step to combatting the problem is promoting awareness, she said.

"We want to make our school aware of how widespread the problem is," she said.

Suggestions included a contract for parents in which they promise to be open to the needs

More than 200 student leaders joined representatives from Romulus businesses and government Friday in an all-day symposium on dropouts. Participants spent most of the day in study groups brainstorming for ideas to combat the problem. Protest: Residents wage war against pay hike

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

As a proposed 50-percent pay raise for members of Congress awaits approval from the U.S. House of Representatives, the issue is drawing fire closer to home.

The proposal calls for an increase from $89,500 per year to $135,000 per year for all members of Congress. A similar increase would go to federal judges and to top officials of the executive branch.

Members of the Senate voted to reject the pay increase Thursday night and now the decision rests with members of the House of Representatives. In order to stop the proposal from being enacted, it must be rejected by both houses of Congress.

House leaders were to vote on the issue yesterday.

Meanwhile, the proposed 50-percent raise has sparked anger among area residents.

Two Westland men, James Warrix and Vincent Berna, are so angry about the pay raise they have erected a four-by-eight-foot, protest sign on Warrix's front lawn on Warren Road.

"Help stop this. Our Senate and Congress are getting a 50 percent pay raise. What are you getting?" the sign reads. It also lists the names and telephone numbers of Sen. Carl Levin (D-Detroit), Sen. Donald Riegle (D-Flint) and Rep. William Ford (D-Taylor).

The sign is an attempt to put citizens into action against the pay raise, Warrix said.

"It seems everybody has become ostriches," he said. "Did we have a say as far as this raise? A federal commission decided they're (Congress) grossly underpaid. They can't even come up with a strong minimum wage."

This strong reaction has been voiced by a number of people.

"People are furious that Congress is granting itself a raise through a puppet commission while huge federal budget deficits persist," said state Sen. Harmon Cropsey (R-Decatur).

Cropsey is attempting to set into motion a resolution for every state legislature in the country. It calls for a constitutional amendment which prohibits Congress from receiving a pay raise until the following conditions exist.

- The federal debt must show a decline.

- A balanced budget must be approved.

- Members of Congress must be prohibited from receiving honoraria.

If two-thirds of the state legislatures adopt the resolution, a constitutional convention may be called, or Congress may put the resolution to a vote in the states, according to Cropsey.

"I think that if it is tied to their honoraria...some increase is justified," said state Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton). "I don't think it is necessary for Congress to receive a 50-percent pay raise."

Westland residents Jim Warrix (left) and Vince Berna have painted an angry picture for congressional pay hikes in the for of a billboard. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Kosteva was referring to a companion proposal which would prevent members of Congress from accepting speaking fees or other honoraria. Senate voted in favor of the restriction with the condition that the 50-percent pay hike take effect.

Kosteva added that some type of pay raise for Congress is justified because members are faced with the expense of maintaining two households. A raise is also needed to attract qualified people to positions in Congress, he said.

Several members of Congress have spoken in opposition to the pay raise.

Congressman Sander Levin (D-Southfield) has issued a general statement in opposition to the pay raise, according to an office aide. Levin was unavailable for further comment.

Riegle (D-Flint) voted against the pay raise Thursday evening.

Local murder case goes to Supreme Court

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A court case involving the murder of two Romulus men in 1985 is now being reviewed by the Michigan Supreme Court.

Van Robin Hooper, 24, and Charles David Stanley, 27, were shot to death in Hooper's car on the morning of April 6, 1985.

In September 1985, Robert A. Williams, 33, of Romulus, was convicted of first-degree murder in connection with the shooting along with two counts of possession of a firearm during a felony.

Williams was sentenced by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman to two mandatory life sentences for the murders to be served consecutively with a two-year sentence for the firearm felony.

Williams appealed the ruling to the Michigan Court of Appeals based on three points.

First, Williams claimed he received inadequate assistance from defense attorney Martin Marcus during his trial. Williams claimed Marcus failed to convey information about a plea bargain offer.

In addition, Williams claimed the trial court should have suppressed statements he made to Romulus police officers immediately after the shootings. He said he was in custody during the questioning, and should have been read his rights.

Williams was not in custody at the time of the questioning, according to Romulus police officials.

Also, Williams claimed the trial court should have established whether or not he was a principal offender or aiding and abetting the crime.

In September 1988, the Michigan Court of Appeals affirmed the opinion of the trial court.

Now, the case is under the jurisdiction of the Michigan Supreme Court. The court remanded the case to the trial court for findings of fact regarding the plea bargain issue Jan. 25.

"We're fairly pleased by the development," said Jeffrey Caminsky, assistant prosecutor for the appeals case. "It lets us expand a little on the record."

Caminsky said the court of appeals reached the right conclusion, but he disagrees on a minor point.

The prosecutor in the trial case testified that Marcus approached him on the first day of trial and asked about a plea bargain. Marcus was told the best to hope for would be a 15-year sentence for the murders plus two years for the felony firearm with a plea of guilty to second-degree murder, the prosecutor testified.

The prosecutor said he told Marcus he would have to obtain approval for such a deal from his superiors and did not want to ask unless the defendant wanted it.

Marcus left the room and returned 15 minutes later to say to say "his man said the numbers were too high," according to the testimony of the prosecutor.

The trial court ultimately decided while Williams claims he should have been informed of a chance to make a deal, the offer was conditional and harmless, Caminsky said. He would like that point clarified.

"There was never any offer - period," Caminsky said.

Meanwhile, Williams' attorney content with the Michigan Supreme Court action.

"I'm pleased because it means there is interest," said Suzanne Schuelke, appellate council for the defense.

Schuelke believes two of Williams' three claims are strong: the issue of the plea bargain and the failure to suppress Williams' statements to the Romulus police.

"There is also a very real question as to whether or not when he was taken in if he was in legal custody," she said.

"A person does not have to be under arrest to be considered 'in custody'...the definition is free to leave," she said.

The Michigan Supreme Court requested the findings of the trial court for review by the end of February.

Proposed Romulus health center may resemble Taylor school clinic

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

The Taylor school district has a teen health center, much like the one which might be proposed for Romulus.

Directors of that center said they have had little opposition since the center opened.

The Taylor facility, on Eureka Road, has been in operation since May 31, 1988.

Before the center was established, several parents brought up a number of the concerns being voiced by Romulus residents now. These people claimed the clinic would interfere with their wishes as parents and that clinic workers would attempt to provide birth control or abortions.

"Since we've opened though, we haven't had any opposition...We've had a lot of support," said Valerie Overhold, medical director of the center.

"People see we're not a threat...We've done just what we've said we'd do," Overhold said.

The Taylor center is mainly funded by the Michigan Department of Public Health, as would the teen health center in Romulus. Additional funding comes from the community.

Also like the proposed Romulus center, the Taylor facility is operated by an advisory council which includes teens, parents and clergy.

Services at the Taylor clinic include treatment for minor illnesses and injuries, basic physical examinations, immunizations, screening for sexually transmitted diseases, Medicaid screening and pregnancy testing.

"No teen can be seen without a parental consent form," Overhold said.

The 20 to 50 patients who come to the center each week are between the ages of 13 and 19, but services are available to special education students until age 26.

Most patients are examined by a physician's assistant, but as D.O., Overhold, is available when necessary. In addition, a social worker provides counseling services.

Free transportation to the center is available to all students.

Overhold emphasized that no birth control pills or devices can be dispensed or prescribed at the Taylor center. Abortion counseling, referrals and services are also prohibited by state law, Overhold said.

Health education and "birth control options counseling" is available at the Taylor center, Overhold said.

Other counseling services include nutrition education, drug and alcohol education and counseling, mental health and social counseling, crisis intervention and education programs for parents. The latter represents a continuous attempt to involve parents with the clinic, Overhold said.

"Parental involvement is crucial to the center...most teens come in with their parents," she said.

Also important to the clinic staff is the practice of preventative medicine, according to Overhold.

"If someone comes in for a cold we ask a lot of questions...we screen for psycho-social problems," she said.

"Of all patients seen at the center within a two-month period, 50 percent needed psychological or social counseling," Overhold said.

A center similar to that in Taylor is being considered for Romulus. Many vocal parents have been protesting such a move by the school district, claiming it would undermine parental authority and promote birth control and abortion.

City council hears concerns about teen health center

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Two parents who oppose a proposed teen health center for Romulus brought their concerns before city council Monday.

Romulus resident Sonda Stepchuk and Ypsilanti resident Steve Jensen asked councilmembers to withdraw all support of the health center.

"I'd like to at least bring to your attention what the city of Romulus is getting into," Jensen said. He explained he is unhappy with the teen health center in Ypsilanti and wants to prevent a similar situation from occurring in Romulus.

The Ypsilanti health center distributed contraceptives illegally for six years, Jensen claimed. He added that 42 percent of the visits to the center deal with family planning.

"These people...are asking you for the only thing they can't get, access to the teens of Romulus," Jensen said. "They want direct contact, and they want to contracept them."

Jensen went on to say city officials and residents should not believe claims that a teen health center in Romulus would not provide birth control services or abortions.

"This city is being lied to and duped about what's going on. We're asking this group...to get the whole story before it's too late.

Councilman Noah Bergeron, who is also a parent representative on the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee, disputed some of Jensen's remarks.

"Doesn't the community have the ability to write guidelines?" Bergeron challenged.

Jensen claimed any guidelines established by the community would not be enforceable.

"Cannot your child go to any planned parenthood clinic any time and get an abortion?" Bergeron continued.

Jensen said he is concerned because such a center would be school based.

"Children have to go to school. They do not have to go to planned parenthood," he replied.

The health care needs of Romulus residents, such as immunizations and physicals, should not be denied, Bergeron said. A physician stood up and offered medical care to anyone who needs it during a recent committee meeting. However, the doctor has turned away two teens who did not have enough money for medical services, Bergeron said.

"We don't have a whole lot of medical facilities in this community," he continued. Even facilities with free or low-cost services are inaccessible to those without transportation.

"This looks like the most positive piece of paper I've seen from the county in a long time," said Councilman William Wadsworth.

"We accept our role in this as government as you do," Councilman Noah Bergeron told Gronevelt. "I want people to realize they're in Romulus from a road sign, not the road conditions."

have a better idea of student needs, asking dropouts to speak to classes about the "real world" and teachers writing letters to students who have shown some improvement.

"Now we know what we want to do, we have to decide how," Cichowski said after the symposium. Representatives from each of the five study groups will meet in the next few weeks to formulate a plan, she said.

Settling in

Members of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce are in the final stages of moving to their new headquarters at Holiday Inn-Detroit Metro Airport. The chamber is moving from its rented office at the corner of Goddard and Wayne roads. Members chose the new facility because of access to facilities such as a restaurant within the hotel. patching Wayne Road from Ecorse to Van Born now because under the program it is not scheduled for repairs until 1991.

"It's in bad shape, very bad shape. We can't wait until 1991 to do something," he said.

Gronevelt agreed to look into the possibility of temporary repairs.

Mayor Beverly McAnally explained why she suggested repairs on four roads this year, instead of concentrating on Wayne Road.

"I attempted...to spread the money around the city so everyone benefits," McAnally said.

Several councilmembers said they are pleased with the that students should look out for one another and provide support to those who are feeling deressed.

Teachers must be active in addressing student self-concepts, as well, she continued. Rutledge suggested teacher-student exchanges and support groups.

Additional measures discussed at the symposium included visiting board of education meetings so representatives and suggestions of their children. Other possibilities included peer support groups and parenting classes to keep teen parents in school. Kernigan also suggested child care centers to meet that goal.

Jodie Miller, student government secretary, discussed ways to increase attendance. Suggestions included classroom speakers, an open counseling hour and small rewards for good attendance. Members of the group also suggested work permits should be withheld from students with poor grades.

Tanya Rutledge, student government treasurer, was the spokesperson for the self-concept group. She suggested

Snow savings

Mild winter eases maintenance burden

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

Residents in western Wayne County basked in unseasonably mild temperatures last month. On Jan. 30, temperatures reached an all-time high of 60 degrees. The mild weather could spell significant savings for some local municipalities, but it could also spell financial ruin for some local businesses.

Bob Matzo, director of the department of public service for the city of Westland, said it's a little early to determine the exact amount of savings.

"It's way too premature," Matzo said. "Winter's not over. It's too early to talk about the effect of cost-savings due to warm weather."

"We had a very mild January. That helped us in overtime costs, salt costs, but we don't know what February and March will bring. We could have the opposite happen in the next 30 days. For now, our overtime is down, there's been less plowing, less salting."

Matzo said high temperatures and sunny skies were extremely unusual for this time of year. He said there is no question the warm weather will have "some effect" on savings for the city.

"Hopefully, February will continue like January and we'll have a complete winter of reduced maintenance," he said. "Time will tell."

Despite balmy conditions in January, officials at Wayne-Westland Community Schools said records for the past two years show energy costs to be slightly higher overall.

"We don't have the January billings yet," said Woody London, assistant superintendent for business services. "but the amount of usage between July 1, 1988 and the month of December doesn't show any fluctuation compared to previous years."

London said energy usage has increased in some school buildings and decreased in others, but, overall, energy costs have slowly risen.

He said costs are slightly higher due to inflation rather than bad weather.

"The key is not necessarily how warm the days are," London said. "A bigger factor is how much sunlight you get. Radiant heat reduces energy consumption. We did have a lot of sunny days in January."

In Romulus, road officials believe the weather experienced in January will have a definite impact on their winter budget.

"There is a savings," said James Panos, department of public works director, "but when it freezes and thaws you can have a lot of main breaks."

You just pray you don't have a main break."

Panos, who admitted that he doesn't care for snow, said the tide could still turn against road crews.

"We could still have a big storm," he said. "The weather is funny - if it doesn't get you one way, it will get you another."

One person who doesn't find the weather very funny is Chris Saxton, of Saxton's Garden Center in Plymouth. Saxton sells, or rather, tries to sell, snowblowers at the family-owned business.

For Saxton, the warm weather has meant cold sales.

"It's absolutely crippling," Saxton said. "After Christmas, you don't sell snowthrowers if you don't have snow. If we had had 10 inches of snow in January, we could have probably sold 50-100 snowthrowers. As it stands now, we've sold three to five."

In December, Belleville High School teachers were asked to select students they believed excelled in the classroom. Criteria for the selection was based on student knowledge of subject matter, enthusiasm, willingness to help others, attendance and attitudes.

The students of the month for December, and their department, include: Jackie Howard and Ronnie Mouser, art; Angela Lee, business; Laura Alberts, Donyala Huckaby, Cynde Hughes, Scott Morgan and Jennifer Merritt, English; Bill Byrd, Erica Rush and Mary Shell, foreign language; Wendell Gramlich, industrial arts; Jennifer LeMotte, Lori Storemski, Tracie Thomas and Lisa Wicker, lifetime skills; Virgil Chandler, Stacie Spragg and Beth Tompkins, math; William Frazier, media center; Lori Adkins and Jamie Gonyaw, music; Brian Boike, Demico Cummings, Shawn LaMothe and Laura Nitz, physical education; Drayton Harris, Gary Folks, Consuelo Flowers and Ron Johnson, science; April Ballesteros, Jasper Jorck, Brad Kelly, Thomasina Rose and Robert Stevenson, social studies; and Michelle Epperson, trade and industry.

to honors band

Four students at Romulus High School were recently named to the Jazz All-Star Band, presented by the music department at Eastern Michigan University.

The 17 students in the Jazz All-Star Band and 85 students in the Honors '89 Band were selected from more than 250 high school musicians who auditioned in mid-November.

Matthew Cahill, percussion; Don Pochmara, trombone; Ron Zundel, trombone; and Christine Martell, saxophone, were all named to the jazz band. All four students are active members of the Romulus High School music department.

The students performed with their all star bands Jan. 15 at Pease Auditorium at Eastern Michigan University.

Art students recognized

Four students at North Middle School, in Belleville, recently displayed their artwork at Eastern Michigan University. The four artists are: Craig Bees, Claire Hendrickson, Jayme Parks and Jennifer Zechman.

Six other students had their works critiqued by EMU art students. These artists were: Derek Harrold, Keith Ketchum, Jeff Kilanski, Jay Linderman, Matt Luebke and Larry Wright.

The love of Michael Potter's life is his music.

The 17-year-old alto saxophone player from Belleville High School thinks, dreams and lives for music.

His passion for the sound landed him as first chair in the Eastern Michigan University Honors Band — an honor for top high school musicians. Earning first chair meant that Potter was rated the best out of four other alto saxophone players selected from high schools throughout the state.

He may have reached a peak, but Potter believes his quest to be the finest musician he can be has just begun.

His love for music began in ninth-grade at Belleville High School when he joined the school band program. That's where he met his music idol/inspiration Jeffrey Vogie, director of bands at the school.

"Mr. Vogie has played a big part in my music. He's been an inspiration to me. He's basically helped me decide what I want to do with my life," Potter said.

The high school senior dreams of making a living from his music. And because of Vogie, Potter has decided to pursue that dream through college and even beyond that.

He hopes to attend Eastern Michigan University and obtain a bachelor's degree in music and a master's degree in instrumental music education.

Some day, Potter said he wants to be like Vogie or his music instructor at EMU, Cliff Leaman.

"I've improved a lot from Cliff. He has really helped me in many areas," he said.

While Potter has had two top-notch music teachers, he admits some things a musician has to learn for himself. Potter, for instance, has taught himself about expression through music. He said he expresses himself best with classical music.

"In classical music, every note is an expression. I haven't played a piece yet where you just play through straight. Every note is an expression," Potter said. "If you take a piece of music and play it straight through without any expression, it will be boring. You must express yourself through your instrument."

Potter also enjoys jazz.

"Jazz is something you just pick up. You don't really learn it. Playing jazz depends on the mood you're in. It's a feeling. Every note that comes out of my horn, I try to express the mood I'm in," Potter said.

This passion for music may someday lead Potter to a recording studio, but for now teaching music would make him happy.

"I have every bit of respect for Mr. Vogie. He's the one I want to live up to," he said.

Potter's musical talent has earned him a top rating in the district musical festival last year and an opportunity to compete at the state level, where he also did well. He hopes to attend the state festival again this year.

Belleville youth display
artwork at museum

This is a weekly feature written by area students.

HALL TALK

BELLEVILLE HIGH SCHOOL — The artwork of four Belleville High School students graced the halls of the Ford Museum, at Eastern Michigan University, during December.

The student artists were senior Jackie Howard, juniors Allen Henderson and Jennifer Kraska and freshman Kris Bird. Their artwork was judged by 20 judges from the university.

Howard, 13, created a three-dimensional moveable puppet from cardboard for the display. The arms and legs of the puppet moved when a string was pulled. The scene in which the puppet was placed was a circus tent, complete with acrobats, clowns and an audience.

Henderson's charcoal etching of an elk was also selected for the exhibition. It took him six weeks to complete the project.

A wolf in a thick wooded area was the artistic achievement of 16-year-old Kraska. The wolf was drawn in pen and seemed to "look at you" wherever you went in the room.

Bird, 15, drew the head of a baby as it peered through a play pen. He chose the drawing from a picture he saw in Rolling Stone magazine.

"I liked the shading and the weirdness of the hair," Bird said.

All four students are members of the art club and said they look forward to a future in the art world.

1988 PERSON OF THE YEAR

Educator is dedicated to his student 'family'

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

W

Warner Frazer has made teaching youngsters to feel good about themselves his top priority. As principal of Kettering Elementary School, in Westland, and a longtime teacher in the Wayne-Westland school district, Frazer has influenced thousands of young people.

His dedication to children and the concept of family makes him the Associated Newspapers 1988 Person of the Year.

Frazer, 44, began working for the Wayne-Westland Community Schools 24 years ago. He was a reading consultant, a teacher and an administrator, making his way from Marshall Junior High to Adams Junior High to John Glenn High School and, finally, to Kettering, his home for the past two and one-half years.

Although Frazer sometimes reminisces about the bond that is built between teachers and older students, he knows that the elementary-school years are crucial for children.

"It is important to let them know they are worth something, that they can solve problems without striking out," Frazer said. "It is difficult to break a habit, so you have to catch them while they're young."

It was a stern eighth-grade teacher - dubbed "Hawkeye" - who influenced Frazer to become a teacher. Now, he can't imagine doing anything else.

"Teaching is not like the auto business. There, if you make a lemon, you can throw it on the scrap pile. But we have to work with what we have," Frazer said.

And that he has done. With impressive results.

Kettering elementary is one of a few neighborhood schools remaining in the district. It serves kindergartners through sixth-graders living in an area considered moderate- to low-income. The school is also attended by approximately 50 special-education children.

Being principal at such a school requires extra effort, Frazer admits. He credits his successes to the help he receives from others.

"The parent support here is phenomenal," Frazer said.

Fundraisers inspired by parents have provided the school with a few extra comforts. For the past three years, parents have collected enough money to buy three new paperback books for every student.

A new "pet project" of Frazer is a parenting workshop designed to give parents new ideas on how to approach their children.

"We're trying to teach parents that there is no reason to be autocratic with their children when we live in a democratic society," Frazer said.

A similar workshop would have been helpful to Frazer, who became a parent at a young age and was sometimes stricter than he needed to be. Seeing unruly children in school made Frazer determined that his children would be more disciplined.

"I'm much more relaxed in the classroom than I was at home," Frazer said. "But I do realize that, without order, you can't have learning."

Another project dear to Frazer's heart is the integration of special-education and general-education children. Last year, sixth-graders became "teacher's assistants" to the special-education students working in an innovative sensory classroom. This year, kindergarten and first-grade students are learning alongside the special-education children.

"I want the children to learn to get along with each other," Frazer said.

Frazer believes it takes all kinds of people to make the world work. He is determined to make sure his students know how to interact with all kinds of people.

Although Frazer's office is warm and comfortable - decorated with favorite mementos - he does not alienate himself from the students. He enjoys walking the halls and substituting for teachers who need a break.

Frazer takes time to greet students every day, as they walk through the halls. He makes it a point to be visible to the students when they are returning home.

The students flock to Frazer, and he receives their attention with great warmth and consistency, never favoring one child more than another.

Frazer takes time during the day to talk with students about school. If they are having problems at home, he will listen. When a Kettering student was killed last year in a car accident, Frazer comforted the children and coordinated counseling services for those who needed it.

He cares about the youngsters at Kettering and is always pleased to see former students.

But the job does not end when the bell signals the end of the school day. Frazer sometimes remains at the school until 8 or 10 p.m. His evenings are often crowded with Girl Scout meetings - where he is scheduled to speak - parent conferences, PTA meetings and skating parties.

Frazer, a resident of Plymouth Township, believes in his Kettering family. But he also finds time for his own family, including his wife of 28 years, Dixie, and their four children, Jennifer, 17; Mary Jane, 18; Matthew, 21; and Tony, 27.

The bright-eyed, energetic man is also a grandfather.

"I know the children here keep me young," Frazer said, with a laugh. "I just hope I make myself leave before I become ineffective."

Anyone who knows Warner Frazer will tell you that will never happen.

Dick Kruse

Dick Kruse, 47, is another educator who has gone beyond the standard requirements of teaching. Because of his unending support of the talented musicians he has inspired, Kruse has been selected as a runner-up for 1988 Person of the Year.

Kruse joined the Romulus school district 23 years ago. He teaches music at Romulus Junior High School. The achievements of the young musicians there are a reflection of his labor.

But Kruse does not think of teaching as labor. To him, teaching is a joy. He makes that apparent to the students in his classroom.

This year, Kruse showed his pride in the Romulus band by renting a billboard display which promoted band members. It was Kruse's way of saying "thanks for trying your best."

By trying their best, the band members netted several prestigious scholastic honors.

Kruse, an Ann Arbor resident, is a graduate of the University of Michigan, where he majored in music education and wind instruments. He is now working on his doctorate degree.

Choosing music as a course of study was an afterthought for Kruse. He played clarinet as a young boy and even played in the University of Michigan marching band. But it wasn't until he was at the university for a while that he decided to make music his career.

Today, Kruse can play a few more instruments.

"I can play everything and play them better than the kids," Kruse said, jokingly.

Under Kruse's leadership, the music department at Romulus Junior High School has been substantially improved. School administrators, faculty and students - past and present - are quick to agree that, without Kruse, such improvement would not have been possible.

"He's a great guy," one fellow worker said. "And we're glad he is ours."

C. Joseph Knight

C. Joseph Knight, 59, has made a difference in many lives. His dedication to family and community has earned him a slot as a runner-up as 1988 Person of the Year.

Knight, a 45-year resident of Wayne, is a long-time member of the Civitan Club, making his way up the membership ladder until he was elected Michigan district governor. He was the first local recipient of the Civitan Honor Key. He received the same honor from the Michigan Civitan group.

The project which touched Knight's heart most was Special Olympics. After attending a Civitan gathering in Lansing, Knight sold the local Civitan members on Special Olympics. His support and spirit helped mold Special Olympics in western Wayne County and throughout the state.

"Handing out the awards after the competitions is the highlight of his life," said Elsie, Knight's wife of 38-plus years.

Knight cannot speak about the things which he loves so dearly. In 1982, he was diagnosed as having throat cancer. Eventually, his vocal cords were removed, and he was left without the ability to speak.

Nevertheless, Knight doesn't allow his disability to tarnish his cheerful nature. He scribbles notes and continues to participate in the local Civitan group on a limited basis. Later this month, he will be honored by fellow club members for his 30 years of service.

One of Knight's admirers had this to say. "(He is) one who labors so diligently for the good of his community, one who labors for the well-being of others, as he ignores his own physical disability, one who gives time and energy to those less fortunate among us and one who shows a beautiful lust for life through his humor."

The Rev. Edwin Hoff

The Rev. Edwin Hoff, 67, finds joy in helping those who are alienated from the world because of disabilities and the ravages of age. Because he offers much-needed companionship and warmth - despite the limitations of his own handicap - Hoff has been selected as a runner-up for the 1988 Person of the Year.

Hoff came to Belleville in 1972. He is an assistant pastor at Belleville United Methodist Church. However, his true mission is to ease the loneliness felt by those in nursing homes, retirement homes, group homes and other shelters.

Hoff serves a large area, making his way to approximately 35 facilities regularly. Once there, he visits with residents, prays with them, provides encouragement and "just sits." These residents can expect Hoff to be there. That is what matters most.

"It's very rewarding. I can understand the isolation they feel sometimes," Hoff said.

Hoff has been confined to a wheelchair for 30 years - the result of an automobile accident. Nevertheless, he makes his appointed rounds each afternoon on his own. His car is equipped with special features which keep him "on the road."

The minister is, perhaps, best known in the area for his annual "Thanksgiving in February" dinners. For the past 15 years, arrangements have been made to bring approximately 200 nursing- and group-home residents to the Belleville church for a special supper.

"The event kind of helps break up the winter months, which can be so depressing for these people," Hoff said.

This year will be no exception. On Sunday, Hoff will play host to only a handful of the people he visits and ministers to on a regular basis.

Hoff is married to Mary Elizabeth. The two live with a "four-legged dog that's getting pretty old."

Jim Poole

Jim Poole, 59, has left a great mark on Canton Township. Because of his efforts in developing community pride and community beauty, Poole has been selected as a runner-up 1988 Person of the Year.

For the past 12 years, Poole has served the people in Canton Township - four years as trustee and eight years as township supervisor.

He takes only a small amount of credit for the growth of the township. The true credit, he said, belongs to residents.

Poole is very proud of the new senior-citizen housing being built in the township, awards the area received for beautification efforts and the astounding growth in township population.

"I can't take credit for that. The people did that," Poole said. "People here used to say they live in Plymouth. Now, they say they live in Canton Township. There is a new esprit de corps. The people did that."

While Poole served as Canton Township supervisor, more trees were planted there than in any other community in the state. Beautification efforts were the result of community support.

As an administrator, Poole was not immune from controversy. But, many residents would agree, Poole had only the best interests of the township at heart.

Currently, Poole and his wife, Greta, are enjoying time away from work.

"Every day is like Saturday," he said.

Nevertheless, the former politician plans to return to work soon. He will form a consulting business for cities and townships, using the skills he learned while in office.

But, no matter what he does, Poole will always drive through Canton and pass a tree or senior-citizen housing, knowing that he played a major role in the growth of the township.

JUST MARRIED

Fuller – Thomas

Deborah L. Fuller, of Belleville, and Christopher J. Thomas, of Ypsilanti, were united in marriage Dec. 27 in an evening ceremony at the Ypsilanti First United Methodist Church. The groom's father, the Rev. Perry Thomas, officiated during the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fuller, of Ypsilanti. She is a 1982 graduate of Central Michigan University, where she earned a degree in special education, and a 1979 graduate of Belleville High School. She works as a teacher at North Middle School, in the Van Buren school district.

The groom is the son of Dr. and Mary Perry Thomas, of Ypsilanti. He is a 1985 graduate of Eastern Michigan University, where he earned a degree in computer-aided manufacturing, and a 1978 graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School. He works for the General Motors Hydramatic division.

The church was decorated with candles, two Christmas trees and poinsettia plants. Music was provided by the handbell choir, Betty Ballard, who played the organ, and soloist Lindsey Ballard.

The bride wore a white, satin, cathedral-length gown, with a sabrina neckline, sequins and pearls, fitted bodice and long sleeves. She also wore a fingertip-length veil and a wreath featuring sequins and pearls.

She carried a bouquet of calla-lilies.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Maid of honor for the occasion was Jeradee Penizien, of Madison, Conn., the bride's best friend. Bridesmaids were

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher J. Thomas

Kim Smith, of San Jose, Calif., bride's cousin; Nanci Fuller, of Ypsilanti, bride's sister-in-law; Karen White, of Lapeer, bride's friend; and Marilyn Thomas, of Ann Arbor, groom's sister-in-law.

The bride's nieces, Erica Thomas, 6, and Katherine Thomas, 4, were flowergirls.

Best man was Joel Thomas, of Ann Arbor, the groom's brother. Groomsmen included the groom's brothers, Mark Thomas, of Colorado Springs, Colo.; Stephen Thomas, of Piscataway, N.J.; Timothy Thomas, of Sunnyvale, Calif.; and Donald Fuller, of Ypsilanti, bride's brother.

The bride's cousin, Scott Van Aernum, 3, of Lakeville, Minn., served as ringbearer.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Immaculate Conception Family Center, in Milan. Approximately 300 guests attended.

A rehearsal dinner, hosted by the groom's parents, was staged at Haabs restaurant, in Ypsilanti.

The two traveled to Quebec for a one-week honeymoon. They have made their new home in Ypsilanti.

HELP YOUR CHILD SAY, "LOOK MOM, NO CAVITIES!"

By Arthur Hamparian, D.D.S.

(February is National Children's Dental Health Month.)

Keeping your child's teeth cavity-free is a matter of establishing good teeth-cleaning habits at an early age.

As I mentioned last week in this column, proper care begins with a calcium-rich diet before birth, and is followed by routinely cleaning the first baby teeth.

FIRST DENTIST VISIT

The American Dental Association and The American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry recommend that children see a dentist by their first birthday.

You could take your child with you when you go for your regular check-up. Then, on a second visit, your child could become familiar with the equipment and possibly get a check-up.

When preparing your child for that first check-up, don't use words such as needle or drill, or say "it won't hurt," which can frighten your youngster. Answer questions in simple terms, and be reassuring.

FLUORIDE REDUCES DECAY

Fluoride—which strengthens tooth enamel against acids that attack calcium—is the best and least expensive way of reducing tooth decay.

Once again, the best time to initiate the benefits of fluoride is before birth, with the mother drinking plenty of fluoridated water.

When the child is old enough, usually around age 5, your dentist can boost decay prevention by applying fluoride gel.

Another method for preventing decay is by applying a plastic coating or sealant to pitted or cracked chewing surfaces on back teeth, where cavities most often begin.

SNACK TIME

Sweet snacks are not the only culprits promoting tooth decay. Potato chips and crackers can cause cavities, too. Among the worst offenders are raisins, dried apricots, or other dried fruits because of their stickiness and high sugar content. The best snacks are cheese, carrots, celery sticks, or plain popcorn.

If brushing after snacking is not possible, teach your child to run the tongue over his or her teeth and rinse with water.

PASTA PASSION

We start with homemade linguine, fettuccine and tortellini. All created from full-bodied semolina flour and farm fresh eggs. And served with fresh parmesan and romano cheese, grated tableside.

But we don't stop there. We like to tantalize you just a bit with our succulent sauces accented with a sprinkle of the extraordinary Muer imagination... delicate aromas swirling above each dish.

A SAMPLING OF OUR MENU:

Lobster Fettuccine - Tender, fresh Maine lobster generously folded into a fresh tomato herb and cream sauce. Served over a bed of homemade fettuccine.

Shrimp and Artichokes - A medley of tender delicately flavored shrimp and artichoke hearts. Tossed in a sauce of fresh tomatoes and fragrant wine and herbs. Served over homemade linguine.

Baked Lasagna - Thinly rolled ribbons of pasta layered atop our mildly spicy homemade meat sauce and topped with fresh melted parmesan and mozzarella cheese.

Romulus favored to win volleyball title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Boasting a 26-10 overall won-lost record, Romulus High has been tagged as the "favorite" to win the inaugural Romulus Roman girls' volleyball tournament championship.

"I feel that we have the talent to take this one," said Romulus Coach Gail Coleman, whose club has been 'bridesmaids' in three of the six tournaments that it has competed in this season.

The tournament will be staged, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

Saturday, Feb. 11 in the high school gym. Romulus High is located at 9650 Wayne Road.

Seven other area high school teams will be competing for the title. The field also includes: Inkster, Taylor Truman, Taylor Baptist Park, Lincoln Park, Melvindale, Taylor Center, and Dearborn Heights Robichaud.

Coleman, who is rounding out her seventh season as head coach, sees Lincoln Park and Melvindale as primary threats to her team's plans for capturing the championship.

"Although I know little about these teams," Coleman offered, "they usually have decent programs at those downriver schools. However, a lot can happen during a tournament - an injury or not playing up to one's potential can be decisive factors."

Romulus, a team that has won four of their six South Central Conference contests and has an enviable 26-10 record, usually goes into battle with a lineup made up of Michelle Scarrow, Laura Berlinn, Jennifer Daniel, Julie Machcinski, Kim Cicciano and Mikkie Bendiento.

The junior varsity phase of the tournament will be conducted starting at 3 p.m. on Thursday at the high school. The field will include Romulus, Garden City, Taylor Center, Taylor Truman, Lincoln Park, Monroe Catholic Central, and Redford Thurston.

The tournament is cosponsored by the Romulus Roman, one of six weekly newspapers published by the Associated Newspapers.

Ray Day, managing editor of the Associated Newspapers, said the newspapers sponsorship reflects the ongoing policy of the ANP's involvement in the communities it serves.

"We believe that we have an obligation and a responsibility to the communities we serve," Day said. "And what better way to show this than by helping to organize athletic competition for our youth?"

In the past, the Associated Newspapers has sponsored All-Area Track & Field Invitationals, Holiday Basketball Tournaments, and a Western Wayne Junior and Senior Golf Tournament.

Wolverine swimming title is up for grab

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

No matter which team won the duel last night between undefeated Belleville and Wayne Memorial, the Wolverine 'A' Conference Swimming & Diving Championship is up for grabs.

The two undefeated teams - Belleville and Wayne - were scheduled to meet last night to determine which would carry an untarnished 6-0 record to the conference championships. The championships will be decided beginning at 5 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 14 at Wayne Memorial. The three-day affair concludes on Thursday, Feb. 16 with the finals. The finals are set for 6 p.m.

Although the conference has known but one champ - Monroe, which has won the title six consecutive years, no one is counting the defending champ out of the title picture despite its two losses to the front-runners.

"The Tuesday meet is important," said Belleville Coach Bill Snider, referring

After meeting Wayne Memorial Tuesday night in head-on competition, Belleville swimmers will return to Wayne on Feb. 14 to participate in the seventh annual Wolverine 'A' Conference Swimming & Diving Championships. Coach Bill Snider and his Tigers are among the favorites to unseat the twice-defeated defending champ, Monroe, as the next conference champion. Monroe has swept all six previous championships. Among those who must come through for the Tigers is freestyler and versatile performer Eric Snider, the coach's son, who is heading for the finish line. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer to his team's meeting with Wayne, "but the loser could come right around and win the league title by finishing first. And, although Monroe has two losses, I believe it is still a force to be reckoned with at the league championships."

Belleville cleared its final obstacle last week in the form of a 110-62 victory over Wyandotte to head into last night's showdown with Wayne. Coach Jim McPartlin and the Zebras also brought 5-0 records to the Belleville meet.

Snider said that the duel with Wayne would be close. He said that the outcome would be decided by the swimmers who managed to finish second.

"It will be a close meet. We both have relatively equal strengths and, therefore, a lot will depend on the second and third places. It should prove to be a very interesting meet."

Meantime, the Tigers swept 10 of the 11 events against Wyandotte en route to their fifth straight league and eighth victory in 10 overall starts this year.

Snider put together the winning medley relay team that included Bryan Bogardus, Scott Overholt, Eric Snider and Duane Townsend. The winners were clocked in 1:48.4.

Mike Bird stashed the 200-yard freestyle event (2:00.9)

4 Romulus high wrestlers win district titles

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Led by Romulus High's four Class A district title-winners, Romulus and Belleville qualified a total of 10 wrestlers for the regional championships.

The Class A regional tournament will be staged on Saturday at Plymouth Salem High School. The school is located at 46181 Joy Road. There is a small admission charge.

Heavyweight Paul Nowicki remained undefeated on the year as he surfaced from the mats at Lincoln Park with one of the four district gold medals for Coach Norm Butler's club.

However, the victory may have been costly for the Eagles. Nowicki reportedly broke two toes during the invitational. Whether the injury will sideline the Romulus senior is doubtful as the team prepares to battle for the district team championship.

The team championships will be decided at 5 p.m. today at Wayne Memorial. Romulus is favored to win the team-phase of the title with the host (Wayne), Belleville, and Ypsilanti providing the opposition.

"I would have to say that Romulus, off of what they have done this year is the team to beat at the district," said Belleville Coach Gerald Malecek. "In fact, barring injuries, I believe that Romulus has an excellent shot at winning the regional as well."

At the regional, however, the Eagles will run up against Temperance Bedford, a perennial Class A state title contender which is presently ranked the No. 1 team in the state.

The Class A regionals for area qualifiers will be staged Saturday at Plymouth Salem High School. The state finals are scheduled for a week from Saturday at the Kellogg Center in Battle Creek.

Romulus' three other district title winners included Dave Gehringer (119), Brian Farnan (140), and Rick Champagne (152). The Eagles also qualified Tim Kosikowski (125), who finished second, and Bruce Boyd (130), also runner-up in his weight class.

Romulus is coming off of an undefeated 4-0 South Central Conference season and finished the 1988-89 dual meet phase of the campaign with an outstanding 15-1 won-lost record.

Suffering with laryngitis, Butler said that he hoped at least three other members of his team would have qualified for the regional.

"When you have four district champs out of 13 weight classes, I can't say that I am disappointed, especially since some 18 schools were represented at the Lincoln Park district competition, but I felt that at least three other members of our team should have qualified," Butler said.

The top four finishers in each of the 13 weights earned the right to wrestle at the regional.

In the meanwhile, although the Tigers of Belleville were shut out from gold medals, they produced four regional qualifiers in 103-pound Derrick Reed, Joey Yuhus (140), Mike Braswell (160) and Jeff Komaromi (189).

Komaromi came the closest to a gold and had to settle for a silver when he lost to Rog Williams of Ann Arbor Huron and Braswell, an All-Area wrestler a year ago, emerged from the mats with a bronze medal after losing to Carlson's Jim Morgan. Morgan is considered one of the finest grapplers in the state this year.

Yuhus finished third and Reed was fourth in their respective weight classes.

Malecek said he "needed these four to qualify for the regionals and they did."

"However, I felt that there was an outside chance for two other members of our team to make it - but they didn't," Malecek said.

Asked whether his team can upset Romulus' plans to win the team championship at the district, Malecek replied: "That's a tough assignment."

Aaron ruled ineligible

Michael Aaron, Robichaud High's outstanding athlete, has been ruled ineligible for further high school competition, according to rules and regulations set down by the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

The MHSAA is the ruling body of all public high school athletics in the state of Michigan.

Aaron, a 6-5, 205-pound senior who earned All-Area football and basketball recognition, has completed his eighth semester of competition, the limit allowed by the MHSAA.

Aaron's departure leaves a gaping hole in the Bulldogs' lineup. He is the team's leading scorer and rebounder. He also is the team's floor leader, school officials noted.

Michael Aaron

Rematch: Robichaud returns Inkster visit

Another capacity crowd is expected

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With another capacity crowd expected to be on hand, Dearborn Heights Robichaud will invade Inkster High Friday night in hopes of snapping out of its basketball doldrums.

Coach Monte Dennard and his Bulldogs are coming off of a horrendous loss at the hands of Willow Run, losing a lopsided 82-49 decision to their Suburban Athletic Conference rivals. In their first meeting, the Bulldogs managed to take the Flyers into overtime before losing a thriller.

However, Robichaud has beaten the Vikings of Inkster earlier in the season.

The rematch in the Inkster gym should prove to be interesting.

"You know that they are going to give it their best try," said Inkster Coach George Thompson, commenting on Friday night's game. "That has been the history of the athletic competition between our two schools."

"So we got to be ready - that's all there is to it. And toss out the records. They really don't mean much when our two teams meet. It's a question of pride."

Neither team has accomplished anything that they can write home about. Inkster, after turning back Oak Park, 71-63, Friday night but dropping a 67-60 decision to lowly Ecorse last Tuesday, has an even .500 (4-4) SAC record. (The Vikings are 5-10 on the year).

The Bulldogs are 3-4 in the conference and 8-7 on the year. Against the Flyers of Willow Run, Robichaud ran into trouble early as seniors Anthony Davis and Eric Tinsley went on a scoring rampage and before the evening ended, Davis had a team-high 19 points while Tinsley chipped in with 15.

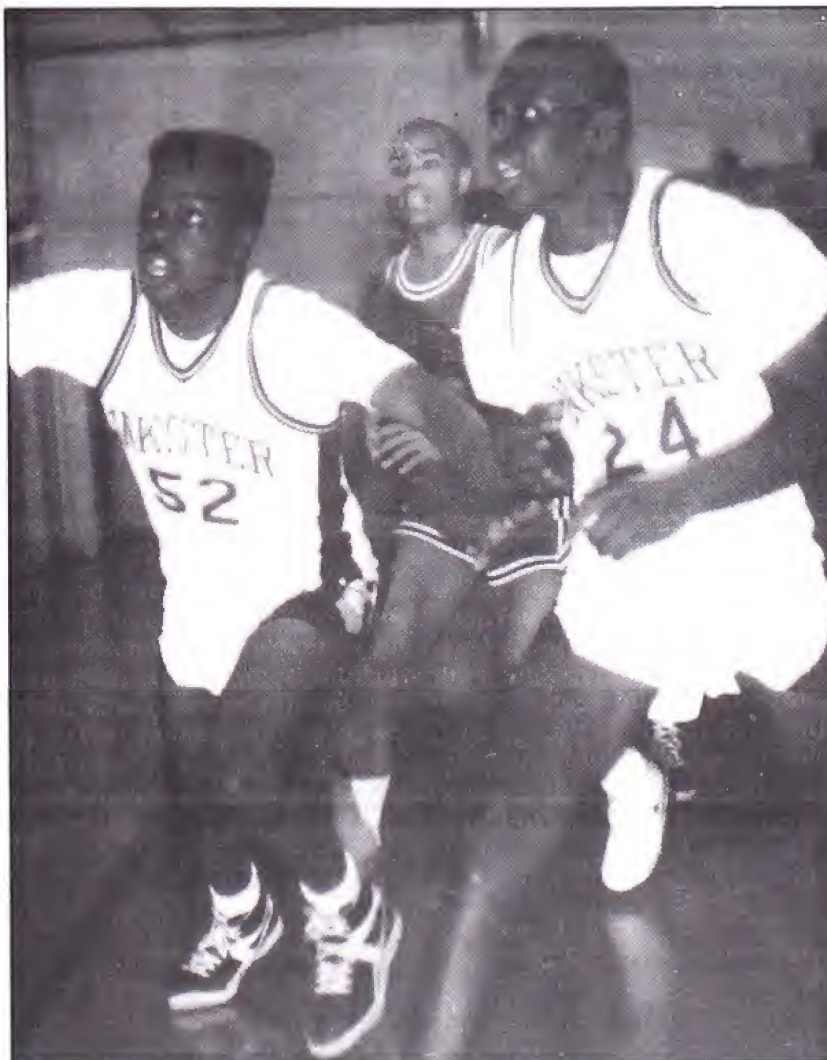

However, Robichaud's Eric Thomas led all scorers with 20 points. Teammate Rod James checked in with 16.

Unheralded Ecorse outscored the Vikings 23-13 to jolt Thompson's cagers in their first meeting of the season. The Red Raiders led after the first period 14-12 but a 21-13 scoring edge lifted the Vikings to a 33-27 advantage at halftime.

Using the free throw line to their advantage, Ecorse came back in the second half to pull their second SAC victory out of the season.

Inkster received double figures from Terrell Brooks and Tyrone Orr who scored 13 and 12 points, respectively.

"We always have problems beating them (Ecorse) over there on their home court," said Thompson, who pointed out that his team's leading scorer (Gary Johnson) remained sidelined for the contest. "And three of our players fouled out of this game."

With the fast-break on, Inkster's Terrell Brooks (24) and Kevin Pinkston (52) join the chase toward the Oak Park basket. The Vikings scalped the Redskins, 71-63. Inkster awaits the arrival of natural rival, Robichaud, scheduled to be in town Friday nights. ANP photo by Steve Thomas/freelance photographer

The trio - Marcus Kewley, Orr and Harlan Burgess - sustained their fifth personals during the Red Raiders' fourth period rally.

With Johnson back in the lineup, the Vikings managed to pull out a 71-63 victory over the Redskins of Oak Park. Although Johnson is not 100 percent physically fit, according to the Inkster coach, the sharpshooting senior rang up 19 points.

The Vikings jumped out in front 21-13 in the first period as 6-7 Jamal Poplar, in his first varsity starting role, connected for six and Kevin Pingston counted eight of those first-period points. Inkster hung on 34-28 at halftime and increased their margin by 13-points (53-40) as the final period got under way. 'Split decision'

After ripping Marine City, Eagles fall flat

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After they humbled a Marine City cage team by more than 35 points last Tuesday, the Eagles of Romulus fell flat Friday against South Central Conference foe, Ypsilanti.

Coach Dan Henry would have probably preferred it the other way around. The SCC 66-46 loss, Romulus' fourth in six outings, also probably sounded the knell on any Eagle title ambitions for the 1988-89 season.

Thirty - count them - thirty turnovers opened the doors to the Romulus debacle.

"Although we came back in the second half against them," Henry said, "those turnovers were just too much. You can't make that many and hope to beat anyone, let alone win in our league."

Senior Ypsilanti guard Derrick Presley compounded the Eagles' problems. Presley was unstoppable as he tossed in 12 field goals and added six of seven at the free throw line for a game-high 30 points. The Braves had only one other player in double figures. Tevis Robinson added 13 points.

Despite their turnovers, Romulus remained in the game most of the first half. Ypsi built up a 16-8 first period lead and held a 25-19 edge at the halfway mark. Then, with Presley hitting from almost everywhere, the Braves bolted from a six-point lead to a 13-point advantage by outscoring their rivals 21-14 in the third period. Ypsi won the scoring duel 20-13 for the final eight minutes.

Grayam Scott, Romulus' 6-9 center, accounted for 18 of his team's points. He was the lone Eagle in two figures.

It was just the opposite against out-of-conference adversary, Marine City. With Virgil Davis and Scott supplying the scoring ammunition, the Eagles soared to a 25-16 lead at halftime, increased their advantage to 41-23 for three-quarters before exploding for 30 points in the last eight minutes to earn a 71-34 decision.

Davis finished with 17 points while Scott counted 15 for the winners, who made 15 of their 30 free throws.

and Doug Duff (5:40.7), respectively. The undefeated Tigers also received winning efforts from Charles Howard, who turned in a 1:08.7 for the 100-yard backstroke and Scott Overholt, who had the best time for the 100-yard breaststroke (1:10.0).

The Tiger 400-yard freestyle relay team made up of Townsend, Bogardus, Bird and Snider posted the winning time of 3:30.6.

The Romulus defense held the Marine City offense to 12 baskets. Three of those, however, were from the three-point range.

Henry and his Eagles will be back in action Friday night at home to River Rouge, an "also ran" this year in the Suburban Athletic Conference. They met league rivals, Ann Arbor Huron, last night. Both games were on the Romulus home floor.

classmen participated in the Chelsea Invitational, the upperclassmen took off for Grand Rapids to compete in the prestigious Grand Rapids Press Invitational.

At Chelsea, sophomore Trevor Yeary picked up a pair of gold medals for his winning performances in the 200-yard individual medley (2:21.9) and in the 100-yard backstroke (1:01.7).

"Trevor is doing an excellent job for us this year and he has the potential to develop into one of our better swimmers," Snider commented.

Belleville's freestyle relay - Snider, Bogardus, Bird, and Townsend had the ninth best time (3:29.0) at Grand Rapids while Bogardus finished 10th in the backstroke. Eric Snider picked up a fifth-place medal for his efforts in the 100-yard freestyle and just missed earning his second medal when he touched in seventh in the 50-yard freestyle.

JUST ONE GOOD AD

Have you ever thought, "If I could find one good ad I could quadruple my sales!"? Have you ever inquired about how you might find that right ad? If you have you've probably been told that the only way is by trial and error.

But, what if a group of small advertisers in a number of cities got together and each tried a few ads sharing their results with each other? If one finds a "block buster" it can be used by the others successfully also. This would be testing in a Co-op method. Together advertisers perform one massive test that they could not possibly afford individually. Co-op works successfully wherever tried. It can work in the advertising industry also.

New officers State lawmakers named to posts

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

As state lawmakers enter into their 85th session, the nature of their jobs has changed slightly as they take on new responsibilities in different committees.

Committees are where legislators hash out the details, make compromises and finalize the language which appears in bill form on the floor of the House and Senate. In some cases, committee work pays off in the form of a state law. In other cases, the pressures of politics prevent meaningful change, as in the case of school finance reform.

During the 85th Legislature, state senators will retain their committee assignments, as the assignments change only during an election year. Local legislators receiving new committee assignments are state representatives William Keith (D-Garden City), James Kosteva (D-Canton), Lynn Owen (D-Maybee), Justine Barns (D-Westland) and Gerald Law (R-Plymouth).

Following is a list of state senators and legislators serving western Wayne County and their current committee assignments:

- Sen. George Hart (D-Dearborn): assistant minority caucus chairman; minority vice-chairman, energy; minority vice-chairman, local government and veterans; member, state affairs, tourism and transportation.
- Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville): assistant majority floor leader; co-vice-chairman, appropriations; vice-chairman, human resources and senior citizens.

- Sen. William Faust (D-Westland): minority vice-chairman, commerce and technology energy.

- Rep. William Keith (D-Garden City): chairman, education; member, colleges and universities; member, corporations and finances; member, economic development and energy.

- Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton): vice-chairman, recreation, recreation and the environment; vice-chairman, taxation; member, education; member, transportation; member, urban affairs.

- Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth): member, insurance, public health and state affairs.

- Rep. Justine Barns (D-Westland): chairwoman, senior citizens and retirement; member, public health, education, corrections and legislative retirement.

- Rep. Lynn Owen (D-Maybee): chairman, subcommittee on military and veterans affairs; member, appropriations, higher education, natural resources and environment, regulatory, public health and state police.

Owen said he was "very pleased" to have been re-appointed to the appropriations committee.

"The House leadership has given me an important responsibility," Owen said. "The appropriations committee shapes the details of the Michigan budget as it allocates state funds for education, law enforcement, infrastructure and all other state government programs."

$4 million state grant earmarked for roads

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

To ensure continued maintenance on local roads, more than $4 million will be distributed to communities from the Michigan Transportation Fund.

Of the $194,531,289 to be distributed to state municipalities by the Michigan Department of Transportation, more than $4 million will go to Belleville, Inkster, Romulus, Wayne, Canton and Westland, according to David Wygonik, spokesman for Sen. George Hart (D-Dearborn).

The breakdown for each community is: Belleville, $92,623.21; Inkster, $982,051.21; Romulus, $821,940.79; Wayne, $591,366.65; and Westland, $2,414,410.49. Figures for Canton Township were not available, Wygonik said.

Funds allocated for distribution to the municipalities, Wygonik said, are to be used for road maintenance within each community.

"State law mandates that the money received is to be used for road maintenance, such as resurfacing an existing road, but not the expansion of it, and filling potholes," Wygonik said.

Work on community roads, he said, will be performed by employees of the municipality.

Monies collected from gasoline, diesel fuel, liquid petroleum and weight taxes are funneled into the fund.

The formula for distributing funds for each community, he said, is based on roads within the community and population.

"The number of miles of roads within the municipality that the municipality maintains is 16 percent of the factor."

The population of the municipality is another 60 percent of the factor," he said. "So, the larger the population, the larger amount that community will receive in funds."
